

ÍNDICE

I. INTRODUCTION	21
II. GENESIS AND FIRST STEPS	25
II.1. On the need for a European Council: reasons for creating a new institution.	25
II.1.1. International level.	27
II.1.2. European Community level.	30
II.1.3. National level.	36
II.1.4. The Conception of the European Council	42
II.2. The period preceding the Single European Act.	44
II.3. The European Council within Primary Law.	47
III. GERMAN UNIFICATION VERSUS ENLARGEMENT.	53
III.1. The GDR and the European Community Integration.	53
III.2. Grundgesetz as a starting point.	54
III.2.1 The position of the European Council.	57
III.3. International Law as a starting point: a prima facie reading.	57
III.4. Rebus sic stantibus: a long and winding reading.	61
III.4.1. A reading against the application of the rebus sic stantibus clause.	61
III.4.2. A reading in favor of the rebus sic stantibus clause.	64
III.4.3. The rebus sic stantibus clause.	69
III.5. European Community Law after the Single European Act.	71
III.5.1. Article 237.	72
III.5.2. Articles 137, 138, 148, 157, in fine.	77
III.5.3. Article 273.	81
III.5.4. Articles 157 and 189: The Commission's independence and right of initiative.	82
III.5.5. Article 164.	84
III.6. Article 2 of the Single European Act and the Declaration of the European Council.	86
IV. THE EUROPEAN COUNCIL IN THE CONTEXT OF THE TREATY OF THE EUROPEAN UNION
IV.1. The traditional European Council.	89
IV.2. The Legislative Council	91
IV.2.1. The new Council.	92
IV.2.2. The new rule.	96
V. THE EUROPEAN COUNCIL IN THE 1992 EDINBURGH AND 1993 BRUSSELS SUMMITS	99
V.1. The "decisions" made.	99
V.2. The nature of the institution.	107
V.2.1. The decisions adopted by the European Council	107
V.2.2. The justifying position.	108
V.2.3. The critical position.	109
V.2.4. The soft law thesis.	111
V.2.4.1. Soft law in International Public Law.	111
V.2.4.2. Soft law in Community Law.	114
V.2.4.3. The weakness in the classification of European Community soft law.	117
VI. THE EUROPEAN COUNCIL AFTER THE TREATY OF LISBON	123
VI.1 Composition	123
VI.1.1. The Heads of State or Government and the President of the Commission	124
VI.1.2. The President of the European Council	127
VI.2. Duties	134
VI.2.1. Duties as the governing body of the Union	135
VI.2.1.1. General duties: providing political directions and impetus	135
VI.2.1.2. Roles in economic and monetary policy and employment policy	138
VI.2.1.3. Foreign Action and CFSP functions	145

VI.2.1.4. Functions within the Area of Freedom, Security and Justice	151
VI.2.2 Constitutional functions	152
VI.2.2.1 Decision determining the composition of the European Parliament	153
VI.2.2.2. List of Council formations and rotating presidency rules	156
VI.2.2.3. Proposal of the candidate for the post of President of the Commission	160
VI.2.2.4. Establishment of the system of equal rotation for the selection and appointment of the members of the Commission	164
VI.2.2.5. Participation in the reform of the Treaties.	169
VI.2.2.5.1. Participation in the ordinary review procedure	169
VI.2.2.5.2. Participation in simplified review procedures	174
VI.2.2.5.2.1. A decision to authorize the shift from unanimity to qualified majority voting, and from a special legislative procedure to the ordinary legislative procedure	177
VI.2.2.5.2.2. Adoption of simplified draft revisions of the Union's internal policies and actions	179
VI.2.2.5.2.3. Other bridging clauses	181
VI.2.2.5.3. Other provisions enabling the European Council to amend the provisions of the Treaties	182
VI.2.2.6. Role upon the accession of a State to or the exit of a Member State from the Union	184
VI.2.2.7. Role in the appointment of certain senior positions	186
VI.2.3. Functions as arbitrator or dispute resolution institution	187
VI.2.4. Other Functions	191
VI.3. Functioning	194
VI.3.1. Decision-making: rules and types of acts the European Council may adopt	194
VI.3.2. Meetings: preparation, development, conclusions, and follow-up	202
VI.3.2.1. Meetings	202
VI.3.2.2. Preparation for meetings	204
VI.3.2.3. Carrying out work	211
VI.3.2.4. Presidency Conclusions and follow-up	215
VII. THE EUROPEAN COUNCIL DURING THE ECONOMIC CRISIS	219
VII.1. The Emergence of a New EU Economic Governance	219
VII.2. The European Union's Economic Constitution	222
VII.2.1. The two coordination branches: Multilateral Surveillance and the Excessive Deficit Procedure
VII.2.1.1. Multilateral surveillance: preventing excessive deficit	226
VII.2.1.2. Excessive Deficit Procedure: correcting and sanctioning	227
VII.2.1.3. Economic coordination before and after the crisis	229
VII.3. The development of economic provisions following the financial and economic crisis	233
VII.3.1.1. Measures for a stronger coordination and surveillance of Member States' economic, fiscal, and budgetary policies	234
VII.3.1.2 Measures adopted to safeguard the financial stability of the euro zone and reform the financial sector	238
VII.3.1.3 Multilateral surveillance	240
VII.3.1.4. Excessive Deficit Procedure	242
VII.3.1.5. The European Semester: the new cycle for economic and budgetary policy coordination
VII.4. Two hypotheses about the actions of the European Council.	247
VII.4.1. First Hypothesis: failure to comply with the existing decision-making method	247
VII.4.1.1. Control of the legislative initiative by the European Council	248
VII.4.1.2. The reform of Article 136 TFEU and the entering into force of the Treaty Establishing the European Stability Mechanism	251
VII.4.1.3. The simplified revision procedure in the case of Article 136 TFEU	256
VII.4.1.4. The principle of unanimity for adopting the ESM Treaty and the TSCG	259
VII.4.1.5 Opaque decision-making by the European Council	262
VII.4.2 Second hypothesis: the economic governance measures adopted are in breach of the law
VII.4.2.1 The Treaty on Stability, Coordination and Governance in the Economic and Monetary Union and EU Law	263
VII.4.2.2 The ESM and the "no bail-out" clause	264
VII.5. Overstepping competences and breaking EU Law	267
VIII. THE EUROPEAN COUNCIL DURING THE MIGRATION CRISIS	275
VIII.1. The "EU-Turkey Statement": A European Legal System in Jeopardy	275
VIII.2. The European Council finally before EU Court of Justice	276
VIII.3. Was the European Council the one the blame?	280

VIII.4. The European Council actions were legally binding	288
VIII.5. The European Council without effective control	299
IX. THE EUROPEAN COUNCIL DURING BREXIT	303
IX.1. A Sui Generis Crisis	303
IX.2 Understanding Article 50: What it says and What it does not say	304
IX.2.1 Understanding the CJEU interpretation of article 50: The importance of what is left unsaid	324
IX.3. Back to the Future: The New Settlement for the UK within the EU	331
IX.3.1 Before Article 50: The made-up procedure and its justification	333
IX.3.2. The actual content of the New Settlement for the UK	343
IX.4. Brexit: What Remains for the Council after the UK has left the European Union	353
X. THE IMPACT OF THE EUROPEAN COUNCIL ON THE INSTITUTIONAL SYSTEM OF THE UNION	363
X.1. Impact on the Council	364
X.2. Impact on the Commission	367
X.3. Impact on the European Parliament	369
XI. ABOUT CONTROL FROM EU LEADERS	375
XI.1. Political control mechanisms	376
XI.2. Judicial control mechanisms	386
XI.2.1 The formal situation after the reform of the Lisbon Treaty: Primary Law	394
XI.2.2 The actual situation after the reform of the Lisbon Treaty: CJEU Case Law	401
XII. CONCLUSIONS AND SOLUTIONS	405
XIII. BIBLIOGRAPHY	433